The following official proceedings of the guests had at a meeting on the stemer between Clinton and Futton on their return from Cedar Rapids last Thursday morning, should have appeared in our paper last week. They were omitted by mistake.

At a meeting of the guests of the City of Cedar Rapids on their return from the Railroad Celebration on Thursday morning, June 19th, Alderman B. Carpenter of Chiesgo was called to the chair, when John A. Bross, W. W. Curtis, and Geo. Watson, Esga, were appointed a committee to prepare resolutions expressive of the sentiments of the meeting. The Committee returned and reported as follows.

Resolved, That the linkeral hospitality and generous welcome extended to us by the people of lows, and especially by the citizens of Cedar Rapids merit our warmest thanks.

Resolved, That the linkonitable perseverance manifested by the officers and stockholders of the Chicage, lows and Nebraska raitroad, pushing it steadily forward through all the denomination and the soundance of the business public.

Also, to the citizens of Chicago generally for innumerable acts of graceful courtesy; shere-fore, be it.

Assolved, That we return to the parties above insentioned, one and all, our most hearty and aincers thanks for the courtesies which have been so generously extended to use for that rivalry inskind attention to our party which has satisficiated our every wish and made our trip a spot on which pleasant memories will ever dwell; be it further.

Resolved, That we cordistly congratulate our Chicago riends on the rapidly augmenting wealth and influence of their already rich and powerful city, and that we corneitly hope that its prosperity may continue and increase; he it further Former News - English papers of June 4th, containing full accipates of the war in Italy; Ballou's Monthly, Nick Nar and Leakier Family, Magazine for July, No. 29 of Our Musical Friend, and a fresh supply of Geoffrey Hamlyn by Kingsley, have been received by McNally & Co., 51 Dearborn airest.

RAILROAD COLLESION.—On Wednesday evening the train on the Cleveland and Pittsburg Railroad due at Cleveland at 6.15 A. M. ran into the Chicago train of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad at Rochester station, where it was taking in wood and water. The Pittsburg train was ranning at a speed of from 30 to 40 miles per hour, it being behind time. The engineer of the Chicago train promptly set his train in motion, but did not get on the switch quick enough to prevent the Pittsburg locomotive from smashing into the rear of his train; although it no doubt saved a very severe fracture of the leg; it is thought that amputation will be necessary, and a subscription for him was raised among the passengers. A gentleman, who foolishly attempted to jump from a car window was badly burt, and a lady received severe injuries. Half a dozen others were more or less injured. The names were not ascertained. Three cars were smashed up in the collision. The Cleveland Leater of the 18th says:

From last night reports, both engineers were probably careless. Had not the Chicago train of the online work of the limb would have been immense. The train did not reach the city last night until 11 o'clock.

The daughter in the meantime, hearing a noise, was coming towards the just in a time-to see her father enter the smoke house, but before she could reach the door he had shot himself. This was a dreafful shock to the poor girl indeed, but who can imagine her horror at the bloody spectricle that met her gase as she outered the house. There lay her mother weltering in blood but still writhing in agony. The neighbors were starmed and medical sid procured as was past all help, but she lingered through the wight, though insensible, and was still alive yesterday afternoon. It is said that there is no hops of her recovery.

Rettig had lived in this country upwards of 12 years, during which time, by prudence and reconomy, he had haid up the sung little aum of $12,000, besides having a well stocked and calivated farm of eighty acres. He was haffbrother of Mr. Maithias Stien, one of our oldest and most respected citizens, and as far as we can learn, he lived an irreproachable life. Of late years, however, he had hese feltaracterized by extreme eccentricity on one subject, namely the wife a fidelity, and talety this idea worked upon him to such an extent that he frequently accessed his beat friends of designs upon horehastity, and this, no doubt, led to the dreafful deed. city, and indeed the whole American people are indebted for the successful establishment of one of the most valuable educational enterprises of oils kind in the country.

In this chain of National Mercantile Colleges, which now link together seven of the most important commercial cities of the Union, we see a new element of power in diffusing a higher order of business intelligence, in promoting uniform views and methods in commercial transactions, and in multiplying facilities fore the acquisition of a thorough and practical knowledge of inserantile science; and this purely American enterprise is admirably adapted, and is certainly destined to accomplish all these important objects, and to extend the most substantial and practical benefits to every commercial city on the American Costinent.

We saw on Saturday a new and admirable contrivance for the burning of Kerosene Oil, it is attached to lamps, and called Hale's Patent Kerosene Oil Burner. By turning a small knob the fluid may be regulated to an economical night light, or developed into a large and brilliant flame, it does not allow the odor of the oil to escape, and is therefore just the third of Kerosene hamps. Should she coming harvest be abundant, the amount to be manufactured into flour at this place this year is estimated at about half a millien of bushels.

The business of distillery and browing is by far the most extensive that is carried on in the city. Some estimate may be formed of it by reference to the following figures taken from the Pooria Tanasevige of the 1th, in which the business of the city is fairly stated:

The ordinary price of crude in Canton, is $60 to $70 per picul (133 1-3 lbs.,) and of prepared, $70 to $80 per picul. In New York it is quoted at 70 to 75 cents per lb., for the dried root, by the Economist of June 15th. Dealers in the article rable sums of money, who have built drying houses and are paying 9 cents per pound for the green root. It is said that four pounds of the green will make one pound when

The digging in Minnesota a at persent confined to the "Big Woods," a district of country about 190 miles by 70. Whether the plant is found in other portions of the State in sufficient quantities to pay for digging, we are not advised. Large numbers, composed of all classes The number of pieces manufactors of people, men, women and oblidien, have a newly discovered gold-place. It is said that a stout, active man will dig from 26lbs to 50lbs per day, which, at 9 cents per lb., is certainly good wages in hard times. Some are said to have done even better the good wages in hard times. Some are said to have done even better than this. How much will be dag during the season, we have no means of ascertaining; but well informed citi-zens of Minnesota think that the amount of

The question is often asked, why have not the people of Minnesota engaged in this business before f. The answer plainly enough is this. They have supposed it to be more profitable to trade in corner lots, town sites, water powers, wild lands, and to engage in gigantic railroad enterprises ten years before such roads were needed, to lean the credit of the State to sharpers, giving them permission to use the same as a besis for currency with which they have flooded the State, and which, as everybody ought to have known would be the case, has fallen worthless upon the hands of innocent holders. They are wiser now. Town the sind corner lots are taking care of themselves, the railroads have come to a dead looks, the currency makers find their trade at a said discount—and the people have fallen back upon this great natural source of wealth with which their forests are supplied, as the only means to save thomselves from want and financial rhis. Fine beds of clay are found in the bluffs adjacent to the city and a good article produced; nearly 11,500,000 bricks were made during the past year, worth $57,000. The value of lard oil manufactured is set down at $38,700 tightning rods $4,000. Wagons, carriages and agricultural implements ever $500,500.—The foundries and manufacturing shops, boat building, and numerous other establishments in which labor is employed and smoony regniarly paid out, together wift those already chumerated from a reliable and regular basis for trade and give to Peoria a substantial and constant growth.

A fourth incendiary fire, Wednesday evening was discovered at about a quarter past eleve o'clock. In a short time the beautiful and use ful school building of the Galera Classical Institute was in ruins. Just one week before, within a few binness of the same time of the clock, the slarm was given that the stable of the Bradway House was on fire, by which a heavy private loss was sustained and the Court House seriously endougered. The De Soto House block was fired the week previous in the morining, and the week before at a quarter past 11, Drum's Chair Factory was burnt. These fires boccurring at nearly stated intervals of time, and in three of the cause the fires breaking out within a few minutes of the same time at scickodness.
